BURNS TELLS STORY

Detective Describes His Hunt for Dynamite Conspirators.

INTERVIEWS WITH HOCKIN

Secretary of the Ironworkers, a Defendant, Makes Disclosures.

OBJECTS TO MURDER PROGRAM

Gives Information Regarding the Operations of McNamara Brothers—Others Implicated.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., November 30.—

William J. Burns' story of his pursuit of the McNamara brothers and the dynamite explosion, was told by him at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial today.

At the time of the explosion on October 1, 1910, he said, he was on a train from San Francisco to Los Angeles and the next day, as a detective, he was employed by the Los Angeles Times explosion, was told by him at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial today.

He remained on the Pacific coast until the latter part of December, when he returned to Chicago. In Chicago, he said, he met Herbert S. Hockin, now secretary of the Ironworkers' union. Hockin is accused by the government of having betrayed the dynamite while he himself was a dynamite.

Substance of Burns' Statement.

Mr. Burns in substance testified: "Hockin told me he would not have met me if it were not for the fact that the dynamite were going to do a lot of killing. He said John J. McNamara, then secretary of the union, had employed James B. McNamara and McDaniel to kill as many people as possible. I told Hockin he was late with his information, as I knew all the facts about the explosion. Then I asked him where he got his information that people on the Pacific coast were going to blow me up. He said Hockin told him that the secretary of the Ironworkers' executive board knew about the explosions. He said neither they nor President Frank M. Ryan knew what John J. did, except perhaps Eugene A. Clancy of San Francisco. I told him it wasn't possible for money to be appropriated every month for McNamara without others higher up knowing of it. I told Hockin I proposed to get the men higher up. I didn't want merely local men. He said John J. was the man I wanted.

Declines Offer in Part.

"I offered to pay Hockin to come into my employ, but he said he would accept only his expenses. I told him at that time Los Angeles had ceased to pay me and now I had not only to fight dynamite, but also a class of men opposed to civic decency in San Francisco.

"I told him on the day after the Los Angeles explosion I had informed Mayor Alexander that John J. McNamara and McDaniel were behind the explosion. He impressed him with the fact that I didn't want to arrest John J. and James B. and depend on their making concessions. He was afraid to watch J. J. at Indianapolis too much, as they might learn of it and the whole thing would blow up."

Questioned by Defense.

Questioned by Senator J. W. Kern for the defense about securing McDaniel's first confession in Chicago shortly after the arrests, Burns was asked:

"Did McDaniel implicate any one besides the McNamaras?"

"He mentioned only Michael J. Young of Boston, in connection with the explosion at Springfield, Mass., and he implicated Hockin as having procured nitroglycerin and as having employed him to build up a building in Detroit."

District Attorney Miller stated that only one more witness for the government will be called Monday, when the government will rest its case.

ADVICE ON CHILD'S BOOKS

Parents and Teachers Given Aid in Selection at the Public Library.

With a view of giving aid to parents and teachers regarding the selection of the best books for children to read, lectures were given at the Public Library late yesterday afternoon, and there was an exhibit of books to demonstrate the points made.

The lectures were made by George F. Bowerman, the librarian, and Miss Clara W. Herbert, the children's librarian.

"A good book for children," said Miss Herbert, "should have ethical value, vitality and interest, a hero worshipping element for things and people that are admirable, simplicity of incident and lack of morbid introspection. The right book at the right time is important."

"It is wise to take advantage of the phase through which a child's reading taste passes and give the child the material craved at that time. He needs picture books and rhymes, fairy tales, myths and legends, for these three are the basis for a literary appreciation, and cultivate the imagination which is necessary to carry the child successfully through the world; hero stories for boys and girls and men and women whose lives are a lesson to the child."

Books giving suggestions for occupations meet a great want for children who can't read for reading than they do for activity.

Author's Reputation a Factor.

"To form a quick judgment as to the merits of a book when at the book counter, one may be guided a little by consideration of the author's name and reputation, and also the reputation of the publisher. Something can be learned from the make-up of the book—cheap paper and cheap illustrations are apt to indicate a cheap book. If a book one of information the subject should be known to be of interest to children, and a brief glance over the pages will give one an idea of whether the matter is handled in an interesting way."

Exhibits of books suitable for Christmas gifts will be shown at the library December 4 and 5, from 2 until 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Bowerman announced last night that the library will be pleased at any time to advise on proper books for children. Those present yesterday were given lists of books for children endorsed by the library.

Miss Herbert said that it was a good thing for a child to have a library of its own.

Funeral of John M. Baker.

McAllister of New York city were found in the pockets of a man about thirty years old, who committed suicide here today by asphyxiation in a hotel room. NYMAN'S FUNERAL TUESDAY.

Inquest Over Body of Accident Victim to Be Held Tomorrow.

Funeral services for George W. Nyman, the ironworker who was killed yesterday morning when he accidentally fell from the roof of the new bureau of engraving and printing building at the foot of 14th street southwest, will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Nyman, 1424 9th street northwest. Rev. Ambrose A. Beavens, assistant pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, will officiate, and the interment will be at St. Mary's cemetery.

Coroner Nevitt swore a jury over the body at the morgue yesterday afternoon. It was impossible for the police to get the necessary witnesses from the scene of the accident, however, and the inquest was postponed until tomorrow afternoon.
